Pharmacists workforce: work characteristics and contributions

NEWS-MEDICAL.NET – Results released today from the Pharmacy Manpower Project's 2009 National Pharmacist Workforce Survey indicate shifts in the pharmacy profession toward more patient care. This 2009 report also provides insight into how the nation's current economic situation has influenced the dynamics of the U.S. pharmacy workforce as nearly a quarter of pharmacists are practicing part-time and more are working past retirement age. This study is the third in a series of surveys commissioned by the Pharmacy Manpower Project, Inc. (PMP) since 2000 and has been highly anticipated throughout the industry.

Female practicing pharmacists have increased significantly, comprising 46% of the workforce in 2009, up from 31% in 1990. Study results also reveal an aging population of pharmacists with 37% over age 55 in 2009, compared to 30% in 2004 and only 21% in 2000.

Between 2000, 2004 and 2009, the proportion of pharmacists working full-time decreased from 73% to 68% to 67%, respectively, while those working part-time increased from 14% to 17% to 20%. Among respondents who were actively practicing as pharmacists, the proportion of both male and female pharmacists working part-time increased between 2000, 2004 and 2009. 23% of the workforce reported working part-time in 2009, up from 20% in 2004 and 16% in 2000.
