

*F*ounded in 1914, as a small repackaging distributorship, Dik Drug endured by selling a limited variety of non prescription healthcare products to drug stores in the Chicago area. In the 1960's the current generation of ownership, Edward and John Dik, assumed control of the company and expanded their operation to diversify product offers, eventually including pharmaceuticals in the 1970's.

Today, Dik Drug warehouses over 20,000 products over a broad spectrum of categories and has succeeded by specializing in full line service and support to independent pharmacy. As an independent, regional distributor, we understand the challenges and needs of independent business. Similar to your focus, we strive to provide the products and services the customer needs, at a competitive price, supported by outstanding service. We pride ourselves in these attributes as exhibited by our corporate philosophy:

...small enough to care
